Are you of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander origin?

Every person will be asked this question. You might think it is obvious that you are, or are not, of Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander origin. But our staff will not make a decision based on your looks, name or voice.

Why you are asked this question

- Laurel House is able to offer the services of an Indigenous Community Liaison Worker to support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander clients. We will also offer, where we can, culturally-appropriate resources and referrals.
- Information about the number of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people who access services like this one is important as it determines government decisions about funding of identified services for Indigenous people.

Your choice

- It is your choice to identify your origins as Aboriginal, Torres Strait Islander, both, or neither.
- It is also your choice whether to access the support of the Indigenous Community Liaison Worker.

If you have any further questions, please feel free to speak to one of our staff.
Thanks for your co-operation!
